

Peace Park Dedication at Waterton Lakes

Prince of Wales Hotel Scene of Memorable Gathering Symbolic of International Goodwill.

An inspiring gesture of goodwill and neighborliness between Canada and the United States may truly describe the motive governing the origin of the Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park. To Rotary International and the personal efforts of Canon S. H. Middleton, chairman and director of the ceremonies of Saturday and Sunday, must be credited the motive force of the "consummation and dedication" of this beautiful area of lakes and mountains of Waterton and Glacier Parks, the glory and beauty of which so appealed to the late Kootenai Brown, pioneer and the first park superintendent of many years ago, that he obtained Federal action to have the area surrounding Waterton Lakes set apart as a national park. Combined with the action of the Federal government of the United States, this symbol of peace and international goodwill will, it is anticipated, stand for all time as a demonstration of the ideals of the Rotary Clubs of Alberta and Montana, which, in 1931, "pledged our loyalty and allegiance to foster all international relationships."

The following extract from the historical record accompanying the programme of the dedication ceremonies states: "In the conception of an international park lies a lofty and inspiring ideal. The music of running waters, the songs of birds, the delicate coloring of peaks, lake and forest, have their response in the human heart, while the assembling and association of citizens of neighboring countries in an atmosphere of beauty such as that of the new International peace park must inevitably strengthen a friendship which has stood the test of time."

Many prominent people of the province were present, and taking part, included Lieut. Governor and Mrs. Walsh; Bishop and

Michel Defeats Coleman

Michel soccer eleven shut out the locals here last evening by a 2-0 score. Coleman played the first twenty-five minutes with ten men, before getting to full strength.

Coleman had the greater share of play during the early stages of the game and should have been several goals ahead but lack of finish around the net spoiled many scoring chances. Michel forwards were ever dangerous when close to goal.

Michel went ahead at the twenty-five minute mark when Walker scored with a hard drive which had Ford well beaten. Coleman added pressure on the Michel net but their efforts were of no avail.

In the second half Michel went further ahead when Ford came out of goal to try and clear from McKenzie. The latter got the ball free and passed to Fleming who scored. Final whistle found the score 2-0 in favor of Michel.

Morrison, and Col. R. F. Barnes.

Over 1,000 of the people of Alberta and Montana attended the ceremonies on Saturday afternoon, and on Sunday there was another large gathering when the memorial cairn to Kootenai Brown was unveiled.

Elks Work For Children

Attention is drawn to the fact that the Elks Lodge held a children's sports day last year, it being first arranged for the King's Jubilee anniversary on May 6. Rain and snow caused a postponement of the sports, which were held later. This will correct the report that was published last week that the last sports day was in 1933. The Elks have always taken a prominent part in remembering the children at certain seasons, and it is hoped their good work will continue.

Summer vacation school for the children of the Roman Catholic church is being held in Central school for eleven days. Sister Beatrice and Sister Winifred of St. Michael's hospital, Lethbridge, being in charge. During their stay here they are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McIntyre. They will leave here on Sunday next.

Kimberley 2, Coleman 1

Kimberley, leaders of the Crow league, added another two points to their impressive total at the expense of the local soccer eleven on Sunday afternoon when they won 2-1. Kimberley played the better football and though one goal down in the first twenty minutes soon equalized and went ahead early in the second half to finish in the lead. Coleman played a hard game but were guilty of too many wild passes, the majority of which found the toe of an opposing player and the ball booted back into Coleman territory.

Kimberley played for an early lead but were thwarted by the local defence. Joyce put the locals ahead when he took Gardner's pass to score. Not to be outdone Kimberley started a drive towards the Coleman net which culminated in "Smiling" Harry Brown dimaxing a brilliant passing attack between three Kimberley forwards to kick the ball past brother Fred, who was in the Coleman net.

A few minutes after the start of the second half, Forrester raced up the left wing and shot for goal. F. Brown made a great save but failed to hold the ball, Kulai rushing in to head it into the net for the winning counter.

Opportunities to score were passed up by both teams due to erratic shooting. The game lived up towards the end when Joyce and Jones, who had been staging a private feud of their own, came to blows, both being chased from the game by referee Caulfield. Final result: Kimberley 2, Coleman 1.

Coleman: Brown, Griffiths, Anderson, Burrell, McCoy, Hulme, Gardner, Watson, Joyce, Moore, Ball.

Kimberley: Brown, W. Jones, Forrester, J. McFarlane, Kulai, G. Jones, Gilbert, G. McFarlane, Forsey, H. Brown, McLay.

Coleman Trims Michel Baseball Team in Exciting Game

In a game replete with thrills for the entire nine innings and the most exciting of the season Coleman baseball club defeated Michel 15-13 Wednesday evening in a scheduled league game. Michel gave away too many runs in the second inning when a steady stream of Coleman batters paraded to the plate to score eleven runs.

Michel continued to score in every inning but one to come within two runs of the locals. With the score 15-13 in the ninth inning and three Michel players on bases with two men out, excitement became intense. Field finally forced the batter to two strikes the latter swinging in desperation to bat out a weak hit for the final out.

Tourist Trade Revenue

It would appear that provincial governments of the prairie provinces which neglect to spend sufficient money to maintain their highways in good condition are overlooking a good bet, if figures of tourist traffic from the other side of the international boundary into Canada are an index of what might be expected if highways were made attractive enough to draw the quota of this windfall which the western provinces might reasonably expect.

Recently published figures show that tourists entering Canada in 1935, most of them from the United States, were responsible for a total expenditure of $202,314,000 in this country during their stay here, if an estimate published by the Dominion department of trade and commerce can be accepted as reasonably accurate.

This is an enormous revenue from such a source when it is remembered that the principal export industry of this agricultural country totalled in value $156,153,857 in the same year, this being the value placed on Canadian exports of wheat and wheat flour for 1935 by the External Trade branch of the Dominion bureau of statistics.

Thus the tourist trade to Canada in 1935 was worth approximately $46,000,000 more to the country than the principal exported agricultural commodity and, when it is pointed out that a substantial proportion of tourist expenditure means clear profit, the value of the traffic in comparison is greater than even appears on the surface.

But when one examines the comparative figures of income from tourist traffic by provinces it is immediately apparent that the share derived by the prairie provinces of this newly developed source of wealth is but a drop in the bucket compared with the income enjoyed by some of the eastern provinces and British Columbia from the same source.

For example, figures compiled by the Saskatchewan Motor Club show that on an average expenditure basis, varied according to length of time of their visit, American tourists entering the province direct through ports of entry on the United States border, were responsible for a total expenditure of approximately $82,024 in Saskatchewan in 1935, to which is added another $652,670 as the estimated expenditure of those who entered the country through Manitoba and Alberta ports and spent a portion of their time in Saskatchewan, making a total of $1,474,714 as Saskatchewan's share of this new industry—if it may be called such—last year.

In other words all that Saskatchewan derived from this source of new wealth was less than one per cent of the Dominion's total income from tourist traffic. Without going into further detailed figures it may be said that the tourist revenues accruing to Alberta and Manitoba for the same period were relatively commensurate.

There are certain factors responsible for British Columbia and some of the eastern provinces, and particularly Ontario and Quebec, securing the great bulk of this traffic. One of these is the fact that these provinces are relatively closer to the large American centres of population. This is the principal reason. Another is the greater proportion of paved roads on the Canadian side in these provinces directly linked with similar highways in the United States.

But even after allowing for the greater advantages enjoyed by those provinces mentioned, the fact still remains that the prairie provinces are not getting anything like their proper share of tourist traffic and that for them there are great possibilities yet to be developed.

The relative scarcity of American tourists in the prairie provinces is partly a heritage of the comparatively recent days when visitors found it a frequent experience to have their cars bogged down in mud. Highways have been materially improved since that time but the stigma earned by prairie roads in those days has by no means been lived down yet. This coupled with the difficulty of financing maintenance of a great mileage of gravelled highways during the still more recent depression years has had the effect of keeping away from the prairie provinces of paved roads who would have come, but for the skepticism grounded on former experiences.

This is a handicap which has to be overcome before the three western provinces can expect to share in full measure the dividends of tourist traffic to which their natural advantages and beauties entitle them. This can only be done by taking the necessary steps to see that the network of highways already built is maintained in good condition and that as far as possible the dust-gravelled highways which have been maintained or at least mitigated to a minimum coupled with judicious advertising.

Has Modernized Turkey

People Owe Great Deal To President Of Republic

Mustapha Kemal Fasha, President of the Turkish Republic since 1923, has had eight attempts on his life in 15 years. He pays a servant $5,000 a year for working 30 minutes a day to taste his food before he eats it. In case of its being poisoned, Mustapha Kemal—known as "Grey Wolf"—has made Turkey a modern State. The Turkish army discarded the fez at his command, and he has altered women's veils, the Turkish calendar, and has thrown overboard the old. He has separated Church and State, established art schools where students work from living models. In Ankara, the capital, there are seven monuments of him. Mustapha Kemal is fond of dancing and gay company. He encourages the young folk in enjoying themselves. He is 56 years of age, the son of a minor official, and was educated at the Military College, Turkey.

A New Fire Extinguisher

Bomb That Puts Out Blaze Demonstrated In France

There has recently been demonstrated in France by its three inventors, Signor Redaelli and Signor Finzi of Italy and Herr Puschner of Austria, a bomb that kills fire. The demonstration was arranged in collaboration with the Strasbourg Fire Brigade, which built some stage scenery houses and set them alight. They also lighted petrol and rubber. The new bomb killed all these fires, and aroused great enthusiasm.

The principle of the new bomb is like blowing out a candle on a vast scale; the force of the explosion put out the fire. The chemical substance they contain is quite harmless. It possesses the property of cooling the material it touches, and so prevents the fire from smouldering afterwards. The effect of these bombs on blazing petrol in the open air was amazing.

Toc H Movement

Celebrated Its Coming Of Age At Ceremonies In London

Toc H, a movement which began in a dugout in Poperinge, on the Ypres road, in 1915, celebrated on Sunday, June 28, its coming-of-age in the Crystal Palace, London.

In an address at the ceremony of "lighting of lamps," the Duke of Kent traced the development of the movement through the empire from its humble beginning to the present stage, remarking that Canada now has 38 Toc H units and two houses, South Africa 37 units and one house, and Australia 140 units and one house.

He read a message from the king conveying his sincere greetings and congratulations and recalling that from the earliest years of the movement he had presided practically every year at the lighting of the lamps of maintenance.

(The objects of the Toc H movement are to "perpetuate the lessons of cheerful self-sacrifice and mutual help, without barriers of class or creed, taught by the young men who laid down their lives during the Great War." The symbolism of the lamp represents the keeping alive of "the ideals which they embodied".)

Referring to the recent visit of "Tubby" Clayton—Rev. P. B. Clayton, founder of the movement—to the eastern Mediterranean, the duke said it had stimulated Toc H in that part of the world, where many of its members are drawn from the army, navy and air force.

British Broadcasting

Government Extends Charter Of The B.B.C. For Ten Years

Following the recommendations of a special committee on broadcasting, it was announced in London that the government would extend the charter of the British Broadcasting Corporation for 10 years from Dec. 31 next, increase the number of governors from seven to 10 and increase the corporation's share of revenue from public receiving licences. Cost of such licences will remain at 10 shillings.

The government held the view the corporation should continue to refrain from commenting upon current affairs, both in broadcasts and in the corporation's own publications.

It approved the suggestion of the committee—which submitted its report last March—that empire broadcasting service should be developed. It also held that the licensing of relay stations should be continued for another three years, the postmaster-general being empowered to take over the relays afterward.

The government also approved the continued exclusion of advertisements and believed the responsible departments should take all possible steps to prevent the broadcasting of foreign advertisement programs. However, the government rejected the proposal of the broadcasting committee, which was headed by Lord Illswater, that the cultural side of broadcasting should be transferred to a cabinet minister.

Belgian Defense Project

Plan Erection Of Network Of Machine Gun Nests Along Border

A plan for a series of machine gun nests along the Belgian frontier and extension of the term of Belgium's obligatory military service from eight to 18 months were contained in proposals submitted to the military committee of the Belgian chamber by General Magline, former chief of the general staff and author of the Magline plan of national defence.

The defence project, which has been approved by the superior defence council, calls for erection of a network of small machine gun nests. They would be manned by trained mobile troops and would be reinforced by a "destruction system" under the Magline plan. The system of destruction would consist of mining bridges, roads and railways throughout the border regions to delay the advance of any invading troops.

In advocating the increase in the term of obligatory service, Gen. Magline said the measure would provide the nation with a sufficient number of trained troops to carry out his defence plan.

Violent Deaths

Automobile Accidents, Suicides And Other Mishaps Take Heavy Toll

Automobile and other accidents, suicides and homicides brought death to 6,885 people in Canada last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported. Almost all forms of violent death except suicide showed increases over 1934 and crept up toward record high levels registered around 1930 and 1931.

Automobile mishaps took 1,224 lives or 11.2 per 100,000 of population compared with 1,115 in 1934. This was the largest toll since 1931 when 1,316 fatalities occurred.

In all, 6,885 persons or 62.9 per 100,000 met death from external violence in 1935. This, too, was the highest total since 1931 and compared with 6,469 in 1934.

Suicides accounted for 902 deaths, compared to 927 in 1934 and homicides for 153 compared with 142 in 1934.

All provinces with the exception of Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, and Alberta showed a larger number of motor vehicle fatalities in 1935 than in the preceding year. Prince Edward Island, however, had two deaths as compared with five, New Brunswick 40 against 52, and Alberta 45 against 61.

Prince Edward Island had the lowest rate, 2.2 per 100,000 and Saskatchewan stood next with a rate of 4.1.

Woman Has Gold-Trading Post In British Guiana

A young woman arrived in Boston aboard the Canadian National Steamship liner Lady Nelson and told of conducting alone for four years a gold-trading post in the wilds of British Guiana.

Mrs. Violet McTurk, who has lived in British Guiana since she married "Dick" McTurk, gold and diamond trader, told reporters how she continued her husband's business after he lost his life in an accident four years ago.

"The natives agreed to trade with me, after they pinched me and decided I was all right. They had never seen a white woman until 'Dick' took me back to the post, 200 miles inland from Demerara."

"When Dick died I just went right on with the business. Tourists reach the post quite often, to see Kate Teur Falls, which is, they tell me, five times larger than your Niagara Falls."

Mrs. McTurk said she had operated a river boat, acted as a guide for tourists, and the rest of the time conducted her store at the post, where, she said, she sold everything from rum to ammunition. On this, her first visit to this country, she said she would visit Boston and New York. She was born in Barbados.

German Demand For Danzig Secession Is Worry For League

Geneva.—A Nazi's demand for virtual Danzig secession from all League of Nations control provoked concern lest Germany was taking her first step toward actual territorial revision of the Treaty of Versailles.

That was the reaction in some Geneva quarters to the speech before the league council Saturday by Dr. Arthur Karl Greiser, president of the Danzig senate—a speech climaxed by a brisk Nazi salute after Greiser said he spoke for the German people.

Observers, pointing to the league's situation as disquieted by the Italian-Ethiopian affair, said there was a possibility the free territory might eventually cut off all ties with the league, her sponsor, and proclaim annexation to Germany, her fatherland.

The Journal des Nations conceived this logical sequence to Geneva's attitude toward the Ethiopian question.

"The revision before us is a menacing one," the newspaper said.

Some statements appeared openly apprehensive of the Danzig problem. One member of the council said privately:

"The League of Nations suffered an atrocious defeat in the Italian-Ethiopian crisis."

"The reality, put into slogan form, is the league is besieged by Italy and Germany."

"In the more vital aim of preserving European peace, the league had to abandon Ethiopia."

At the same time, political fight appeared on the horizon over the question of league reform.

France and Russia want to strengthen the league by military sanctions and regional ententes.

Many small nations, on the other hand, want to see the league's activities restricted to consultation and conciliation.

Saturday night the council, in secret session, decided the Danzig problem should be handled calmly but firmly, and asked Great Britain, France and Portugal to follow the situation closely.

Celebration In London

Earl of Willingdon Guest Of Honor At Canada Day Dinner

London.—"Canada Day" celebrations in London included a reception given by Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the Canadian high commissioner, which was attended by 3,000 guests, and a dinner at the Canada club in the evening at which the Earl of Willingdon, governor-general from 1926 to 1931, was the guest of honor.

In a speech at the dinner, which was presided over by Lord Greenwood, who is a native of Whitby, Ont., Lord Willingdon described the five years he had spent at Ottawa as the happiest in his life.

Canada, he said, had passed through a grievous time but had weathered the storm magnificently.

Bank Deposits Down

Emperor Selassie Asks League For Aid To Save His Country

Geneva.—Emperor Haile Selassie took two bold steps in an attempt to save his country from complete domination by Italy.

First, he asked the league for a loan of $50,000,000 to "defend her integrity." Then he took to the assembly a draft of a resolution calling attention to provisions in articles X and XVI of the covenant for non-recognition of annexation obtained by force of arms.

The negus, who delivered a personal appeal to the assembly two days previous, said Ethiopia has a right to assistance from the league under article XVI.

He recommended that league members guarantee the loan, which would be floated by Ethiopia under conditions to be fixed by the council and after consultation with the league financial committee.

World Wheat Surplus

Smallest In Nine Years In Estimate Of U.S. Bureau

Washington.—The world wheat surplus was estimated by the United States bureau of agricultural economics at 388,000,000 bushels—the smallest in nine years.

This surplus as of July 1 in Argentina, Australia, Canada and the United States, the principal exporting nations, compared with 532,000,000 bushels a year ago, 741,000,000 in 1934 and 789,000,000—an all time peak—in the summer of 1933.

The bureau added the world carry-over also would be the smallest in nine years—a total of 635,000,000 bushels as of July compared with 856,000,000 a year ago and 1,109,000,000 two years ago.

The United States carry-over was reported at 125,000,000 bushels, the smallest since July 1, 1928. This compared with 152,000,000 in 1935, 286,000,000 in 1934 and 393,000,000 on July 1, 1933 which was an all-time high.

Peace Conference Proposed

Valera Asks World Powers To Convene At Once

Geneva.—Immediate convocation of a conference of great powers to consider the present international situation in Europe was proposed to the League of Nations assembly by Ramon de Valera, president of the Irish Free State.

Referring to what he called the danger of war in Europe, De Valera said a peace conference would have to be held in any event "after Europe once more was drenched in blood." He said such a conference at present would mean "the terrible menace which threatens us can be warded off."

Meanwhile it was reported France was desirous of getting Germany into a new Locarno conference late in July even if Germany fails to reply to the British Locarno questionnaire. Special efforts also will be made, it was understood, to get Italy into the parity.

Zeppelin Changed Course

Came Via Montreal As Weather Conditions More Favorable

Montreal.—The German Zeppelin Hindenburg departed from her usual course on her trans-Atlantic flight last week and flew up the St. Lawrence river valley to Montreal before turning southwards toward her base at Lakehurst, N.J.

The dirigible's commander wireless the newspaper Le Canada while over this city that the big ship came via Montreal because weather conditions were more favorable than over the Atlantic coast.

The Hindenburg had been sighted over Pittsburgh, N.Y., 20 miles south of the international border.

Again Takes Up Law

Quebec.—Free from the cares of political life, former Premier Taschereau has resumed the legal practice. Every morning since he resigned the premiership he has gone to his office where he began practicing law nearly 50 years ago.

Dramatic Scene

Jew Reporter Shoots Himself During League Session

Geneva.—Stefan Lux, reporter-photographer, shot himself while seated in the press gallery during the League of Nations assembly meeting.

The assembly hall was thrown into an uproar when Lux, photographer-correspondent of Praha newspapers, suddenly arose and shouting "This ends it!" pressed a revolver to his chest and pulled the trigger. He died in hospital.

A Viennese by birth, Lux was naturalized as a Czechoslovak. Before the advent of the Nazis he worked in Berlin on the editorial staff of the Weltbuehne, Liberal political review.

He gaped to a colleague: "I want to die as a public protest to the way Germany is treating Jews. I am not sorry. My mind is completely lucid."

When the confusion caused by the shooting had died down and Lux had been taken to hospital, several letters were found in his brief case. One was addressed to Joseph Avenol, secretary-general of the League of Nations. Others were addressed to King Edward, to the London Times and the Manchester Guardian.

Havas News Agency reported that in the letter to Avenol Lux said he was shooting himself because "he wished by his death to draw the attention of the world to the plight of the German Jews." The letter also apologized for the inconvenience he was about to cause.

Lux shot himself twice in the chest during the translation of a speech by Foreign Minister Augusto Barcia, of Spain.

The bullet did not touch his heart but lodged in the muscular region of the thoracic cavity, doctors said.

He was sitting in the gallery adjoining the main benches of the delegates. Suddenly he arose and cried out in his own language: "This is the end! It is all over!"

Then he shot himself.

When the resulting uproar had partially died away Dr. Augusto Vasconcelos of Portugal, former president of the assembly and a distinguished physician, administered first aid to Lux.

The newspaperman said feebly: "My brief case."

League officials opened the brief case after Lux had been taken to hospital. In it they found the letters.

Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium, president of the assembly, expressed regrets for the incident, then said: "Gentlemen, let us continue." The session went on.

Scholarship Awards

Two Saskatchewan Boys Win In Faculty Of Dentistry

Toronto.—Two Saskatchewan students shared in war memorial scholarship awards announced by the alumni federation of the University of Toronto.

Alexander Duff Leask of Moose Jaw, Sask., won the $250 first No. 4 Canadian general hospital scholarship in the faculty of dentistry. The second No. 4 Canadian general hospital scholarship of $250, also in dentistry, was won by William Gordon McIntosh of Prince Albert, Sask.

"FROM SEA TO SEA"

A relay of engines which pulled the Canadian Pacific Railway's fiftieth anniversary transcontinental train, left Montreal June 28th and arrived in Vancouver July 2nd. It carried the decorative adaptation of the Dominion Coat of Arms, shown above, on the huge 2800 locomotives. In the plate at the top appear the words "From Sea to Sea" and the figures "1886-1936". Red and white bunting covered the top of the cow-catcher and sides of the engine.

May Visit Canada

President Roosevelt Hopeful Of Visiting Governor-General

Washington.—President Roosevelt may yet accept the invitation of the governor-general to visit him in Canada this summer.

Soon after Lord Tweedsmuir extended the invitation last April, asking Mr. Roosevelt to be his guest at Rideau hall in Ottawa. It was said here pre-election engagements would make such a presidential trip impossible.

However, Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference he still was hopeful of visiting the governor-general at Quebec in August. The vice-regal summer residence is at the citadel in the ancient capital.

The present presidential schedule calls for Mr. Roosevelt to board the schooner Seawann near Portland, Maine, around July 14 for a two-week cruise. It is expected he will visit the Roosevelt summer home on Campobello island, in New Brunswick waters, and a stop in Nova Scotia is said to be under contemplation.

If the trip to Quebec is decided upon, it is believed the president would go there by train from the Maritimes.

Fast Torpedo Boat

King Edward Travels 60 Miles Per Hour In War Vessel

Portsmouth, England.—The king, paying his first visit to the navy since his accession, spent half an hour aboard a torpedo motorboat capable of 60 miles an hour.

After inspecting the shore establishments at Portsmouth, the king boarded the new type of boat. The boat headed out across the harbor. As it increased in speed, great waves broke over it. The stern was so low in the water it appeared to be submerged.

Experts believe that these torpedo motorboats, of which 13 cost less than one destroyer, may prove the navy's answer to the air menace. Their high speed and small dimensions make it almost impossible to hit them with a bomb. Each boat has two torpedoes, depth charges and a number of machine guns. Each has quarters for a crew of five.

Defence Expenses In Britain Expected To Result In Deficit

Rate Has Been Reduced

Marine Insurance On Hudson Bay Route To Be Lower

Ottawa.—Reductions in marine insurance rates and a lengthening of the insurable navigation season on the Hudson Bay route have been announced by R. K. Smith, deputy minister of marine, coincident with a similar announcement in London.

Insurance rates on vessels equipped with gyro compass are reduced from 22 1/2 per cent. (or per £100) on insured value to 17 1/2 per cent. The change, Mr. Smith said, would mean the "cost of insurance will be substantially reduced."

The navigation season for minimum insurance rates is being extended by eight days, opening five days earlier and closing at the same time as last year. The date for imposition of surcharges for late departures from Churchill, however, has been set back three days, making an effective eight-day extension. Last May, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of marine, forecast the announcement in a statement to the House of Commons. He then worked out an estimate of the effect of the rate reduction and said a vessel of 5,000 tons equipped with gyro compass and valued at £50,000 would pay £625 for insurance against all risks on a Bay route trip this year whereas last year the same charges would have aggregated £937.

Prepared For Accidents

Vancouver Has Complete Hospital Unit Ready To Answer Calls

Vancouver.—A hospital unit on wheels, complete with four beds and a fully equipped surgery designed to handle all types of emergency cases, is the latest as Vancouver prepared for its golden jubilee celebrations, which officially opened July 3. Built for the Vancouver General hospital, the miniature "emergency ward" is all contained on a trailer measuring 20 feet by eight and can be moved in a hurry to any part of the city.

A doctor, a nurse and an orderly will be on duty at all times as the unit attends the different public functions to render first aid and treat accident or collapse victims.

Unreported For Twelve Days

Ship Of Sir Hubert Wilkins Finally Gives Position

Oslo, Norway.—The Norwegian liner Stavangerfjord reported to Oslo receipt of a message from the Wyatt Earp, exploration motor ship of Sir Hubert Wilkins, which has been unreported for 12 days.

The Wyatt Earp gave its position as 46 degrees north latitude and 40 degrees west longitude, the master of the liner reported.

Sir Hubert told the master he had been delayed but hoped to reach Norway, his destination, about mid-July.

Premier Baldwin Says He Will Retire When He Sees Fit

London.—Prime Minister Baldwin told a Conservative party gathering he is not ill, and will "retire when I think fit."

"But it is for me to decide," he said, "and for no one to dictate to me."

He had gone to Chequers, his country residence, recently for a short rest, the prime minister said, because "I was feeling rather tired and not sleeping too well."

"I have learned much from my short holiday at Chequers," he went on. "I have learned there is a procession of doctors between London and Chequers and that the telephone wires were fusing with requests for me to return to London, and that I was breaking up, and my resignation was imminent."

"There is not a word of truth in those statements."

"There have been no doctors at Chequers. The telephone wires never enjoyed such repose."

"We will all retire some day. I'll retire when I think fit."

Reiterating that sanctions could not work without the participation of the United States, Japan and Germany as members of the League of Nations and that Great Britain was justified in abandoning sanctions because their continued application would mean war, he said:

"War is a very terrible thing, and when once let loose in Europe no man can tell how far it will spread and no man can tell when and how it will stop."

"I am quite content under the circumstances to be called a coward if I have done what I could in accordance with the views of every country in Europe to keep my people out of war."

He said Britain's joining the "mad folly of Europe" in rearming was justified on the grounds of the imposition of sanctions and in the carrying out of any future obligations under the league covenant.

In addition the nation needed a guard against "potential dangers which are becoming greater and greater."

He professed to see hope that "we will all retire some day, but once again to discuss reduction in armament," bringing relief from tremendous expenditures, "which if protracted too long may ruin us all."

Merely To Talk Business

Finance Minister Arrives In London For Trade Talks

London.—Finance Minister Charles Dunning arrived here from Canada, where the purpose of his visit was merely to talk business with "Canada's best customer," he declared.

Mr. Dunning was met by Rear-Admiral Arthur Bromley, reception secretary of the Dominion office, and Lieutenant-Colonel G. P. Vasey, representing the Canadian high commissioner, Hon. Vincent Massey.

Mr. Dunning said he hoped to visit his native Leicestershire if he had time. He was born at Croft in that county.

Pays Surprise Visit

London.—The king paid a surprise visit to Portsmouth and inspected a battalion of the Middlesex regiment at the Victoria barracks at Southsea. His Majesty, who reviewed naval units and inspected the new "ex-quit" fighting craft of the navy in gala ceremonies here, returned by automobile from Chichester, where he is staying with Lord Mountbatten. The troops were "drawn up on the parade ground when the king arrived. Royal artillery units fired a salute."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE anniversary special of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Montreal to Vancouver, commemorating fifty years of operation across the continent, reminds people that Canada is a comparatively young country, particularly the western portion.

THIS train was run as one of the features of the 50th anniversary of the founding of Vancouver, and to commemorate the arrival of the first trans-continental train of the pioneer railroad of the west which linked it with the east—the Canadian Pacific.

IT brings to mind the romance of construction days, when steel was laid through the Rockies and almost insurmountable difficulties were overcome, both physically and financially. Little more than ten years after the first train arrived in Vancouver, the Crows Nest line was built, giving an alternative rail route towards the coast.

THE anniversary not only makes an era in transportation; it also marks an era in industrial development in which the C. P. R. played a vital part. It played an important part in the development of the coal mines of this area, in providing an outlet to markets that without the railroad could not have been secured, and in many ways contributing both directly and indirectly to the development of towns in the Crows Nest Pass and as far west as Trail, B. C.

YOUNGER people born since the construction of the railroad may not realize its importance in the life of the west. Older people, of whom there are many yet living who remember the early days of the west, have an affectionate pride in the C. P. R. and its achievements. It pioneered the west, and had it not been for the courage and aggressive enterprise of the early builders, Lord Mount Stephen, Sir Donald Smith, (later Lord Strathcona) Van Horne and Shaughnessy, and other stalwart men of over fifty years ago, there would not have been anything like the rapid development of the west which followed the advent of the railroad.

THE ALLAN CUP is in town this week. It is not the battered mug that common report has attached to it; rather it has been taken very good care of since it was first donated by Sir H. Montagu Allan, C. V. O., as an amateur hockey perpetual challenge trophy. 1909 was the first year it was played for, when Queen's University, Kingston, won it. In the 27 years since, the cup has made the rounds of many eastern clubs, but only thrice has it come west of Winnipeg. Victoria Club, Regina, in 1914, and Melville Millionaires in 1915, were the only clubs west of Manitoba that had won it till Kimberley Dynamiters captured it in the 1935-36 season.

HOCKEY players who served overseas are honored by a special engraving on the cup, flanked by the Union Jack and the Canadian Ensign, which states: "In honor of the hockey players who served overseas in the Great War, 1914-18."

AN enthusiastic hockey fan of Coleman made the boast that the cup would come here. He made his boast come true, though not in the way players would like to see. There is hope of course that this may happen.

THE CALGARY HERALD is running a series of display advertisements in weekly newspapers to emphasize that only by a free and uncontrolled press can the public be kept informed of all phases of controversial topics affecting their interests. Often is the charge made, and not without foundation, that certain papers print only what suits them or whatever may be dictated to them, their editorial policies being controlled or attuned to the special propaganda for which they are published. Such papers are not serving the interests of all the people. They serve only one section, therefore must necessarily be biased. He who pays the piper calls the tune, therefore do not expect impartiality in a controlled newspaper. Hints have been made that the press of this province should be licensed, and people have been told by the premier not to read those newspapers which do not "co-operate" with him. If this does not show the trend of a dictatorial mind, we would like to know what does. More than that, it plainly indicates intolerance entirely out of keeping with Canadian ideals of democratic government and the liberty of the Press.

"Then We Had A Drappie, Just To Make Us Happy"

Hearing sounds of revelry by night, in the intervals when the thunder wasn't reverberating through the mountains, brought back memories of "barbershop harmony." They sang "Hinky-Dinky Parlez Vous," and various other well-known "trench ditties";
then they tried out some "spectacular swipes and chords whose harmony was so close that it sometimes jammed." As the singing went on, the lightning, and the thunder added to the hilarious medley, until it seemed that the voices of the singers would be drowned out. But not so; they kept on singing, until in the early hours someone started "Cheer up, Mary," and from then on we must have dropped off to sleep, with the faint impression of someone saying
"Good-night," and the parting words, "We'll be seeing you in France." This may have been an old soldiers' party, judging from the familiar songs, or it may have been a stag party while the wife was on holidays.
However, it ended happily, and a good time was had by all.

Without Fear Or Favor...

"I WILL hew to the line of right, let the chips fly where they may." It takes a stout heart to adopt this principle of General Grant's, yet it is the everyday matter-of-course attitude of a good newspaper. No matter whose head rolls in the dust, the truth must be told. No matter what storms of protest and vituperation it brings about its ears, your newspaper prints the news as and where it is found, faithfully and accurately. No malpractice to the public injury is hidden or condoned; no improper policy goes unchallenged. Because the newspaper is the forum and the voice of public opinion. It is the moving picture of daily life where all may see and all may judge freely and independently.

"THE truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth." As conscientiously as though it were under oath your newspaper gives the plain unvarnished facts. Disagree with its editorials if you will—you have a right to your own opinions—but in the news columns you will find only the news, candid and impartial, on which to base your own judgments.

Consideration For Workers

General Foods Gives Annual Vacations With Pay To Hourly-Rated Employees

Factory employees of General Foods in 31 plants in various parts of Canada and the United States, will enjoy from one to two weeks' vacation with pay this summer.

General Foods employees who have completed two years but less than five years of continuous service by July 1 of each year, and who have a record of regular attendance during the preceding calendar year, will get a week's vacation with pay during the current calendar year. Employees who have completed five years or more of continuous service will receive two weeks' vacation with pay.

The decision to reward General Foods' hourly-rated employees has been made by the food company's plant managers. Announcement of the vacation plan was made by R. K. McIntosh, Vice-President, General Foods, Limited, Toronto.

"The purpose of this plan," Mr. McIntosh said, "is to provide annual vacations with pay for hourly-rated employees. It is a recognition of continuous service and regular attendance and of the value of a period of recreation from routine duties."

"Vacations with pay for factory employees is not new," McIntosh explained. "It has been the practice for many years in some units of the corporation to give vacations with pay on a limited basis. The newly announced program is a further step in a long established industrial relation policy of the corporation. It will liberalize the existing vacation plan and make vacations with pay available to all General Foods factory employees with two years of service."

Two years ago General Foods provided its employees with an old age retirement plan. A group insurance program, supported in part by the corporation, also is in force.

During the depression the corporation maintained a high average of employment, and since then General Foods has increased employment to what is now the highest in its history.

Qualified For Prize

Italian, Farm Handed Down In Family For 918 Years

Guiseppi Pierantoni, descendant of a family which has lived on the same farm for 918 years, has been awarded a prize by the Italian government. Records show that in 1018, when barbarians were still over-running the Italian peninsula, a peasant named Pierantoni retained a plot of marshy land in Montebate, which has remained with and been cultivated by his family ever since. Last year the "Fedella Alla Terra" prize, as it is known, went to Antonio Gastellani, who, surrounded by his 19 children and grandchildren, was proved to be working the same land at Querciola, which his ancestors had worked for 709 years.

British Aviation

Huge Sums To Be Spent In Developing Air Craft

The greatest financial year in Britain's history of aviation is just starting. Between now and next April more than $132,500,000 will be spent on aviation alone.

Work, for the right man, is to be had for the asking. There are not enough men to fill the positions vacant. Every pilot with the right licenses has a post, every workman with skilled experience is drawing overtime pay, every designer with ideas is busy at a drawing board.

The largest order for civil aircraft ever placed has been gained for the new Imperial Airways machines—craft that will span the Atlantic, half times on the empire lanes.

More than 2,000 men are at work in the Rochester works of Short Brothers, finishing the first batch of flying boats for this order. Another 3,000 are making the engines for them. Hundreds more are making the land planes for this order at Armstrong-Whitworths. The order amounts to $10,000,000.

The government is spending $90,000,000 on the Royal Air Force expansion scheme. Every aircraft factory in the country is working to maximum capacity on this order. No more orders are being taken.

Wider Markets

Says U.S. Policy Of Economic Isolation Will Newer Bring Prosperity

What the United States needs is a complete readjustment of the economic policy we have pursued since the World War, wider markets for our own and our customers' goods, a wider field of endeavor for labor, a way found by which we can force debtors to gradually liquidate their obligations to us. The policy of economic isolation if protracted for a million years could not in that time return work and prosperity to the people of the United States.

Under a policy of economic isolation, even if a man makes a profit more and more of that profit will have to be contributed to the government to provide subsistence for the unemployed. Under this policy we make it necessary for those who are working to support those who are not. The more trade we have the greater our prosperity and correspondingly less the tax burden. Less trade, less prosperity and higher taxes.—Senator Tydings of Maryland.

More Than A Coincidence

June Brides Did Not Choose Thirteenth As Ceremony

Superstition is gradually dying away but it looks as though there's a little of it yet, especially in connection with weddings. For instance, the Saturdays in June usually vie with one another to see which will have the most marriages to its credit. This year, however, a Saturday came on the so-called unlucky 13th, and whether it's coincidence or not, the Saturdays before and after have a bigger-than-ever list, while the 13th contents itself with less than half the normal number.

The brides of June 13, however, aren't a bit afraid of any bad luck. "It fits all close the day because it fits in best with their plans, although one admitted that she had rather a hard time convincing herself that the "13" didn't matter.—Toronto Telegram.

Has Large Interests

Over $750,000,000 Of British Capital Invested In Shanghai

When one thinks of Britain in China, one thinks of Shanghai. It is estimated that something over $750,000,000 represents the investment of British capital in Shanghai. "In spite of Japan's numerical predominance, the British community in Shanghai still contributes nearly twice as much as the Japanese towards the municipal taxation," according to The Round Table. What has been going on in Shanghai in recent years is typical of the changing conditions in the Far East. There has been a tremendous increase in the Japanese population in the international settlement and adjacent areas, till today the British are outnumbered nearly four to one. But the municipality has been developed by the British and its local council is controlled by them.—Hamilton Spectator.

Settle Child Actor's Case

End Dispute Over Custody And Earnings Of Freddie Bartholomew

Judge Harry Archibald has approved an agreement ending the family dispute over the custody and earnings of Freddie Bartholomew, child screen actor.

The agreement gave the custody of the 12-year-old star to his aunt, Myllicent Mary Bartholomew, who has piloted his screen career from its beginning. The boy's parents, Cedl Llewellyn Bartholomew and Lillian May Bartholomew, were awarded the right to visit him as often as they cared to so long as this did not interfere with his movie work.

The Union Bank and Trust Company was named as guardian of Freddie's estate and his earnings—officially assessed at $1,250 weekly—were ordered distributed as follows:

Ten per cent. to the father, five per cent. each to his minor sisters, Eileen and Hilda, and the remainder to his own estate. From the estate the expenses of the boy actor and his aunt will be paid. The residue will go towards building a fund for his education and future needs.

Home Away From Home

Glasgow Prisons Are Made Comfortable For Favored Few

Prisons of Glasgow, Scotland, are to be just like a home away from home to a favored class of law breakers. The city will spend $3,500 in making cells more comfortable with blankets, pillow slips, bolsters, rubber mattresses, collapsible tables and chairs and other conveniences. Drunks will not be permitted to use them. Recently questions were raised in Parliament about the treatment of persons awaiting trial.

Less than 700,000 domestic servants in the United States live under the same roof with their employers.

Sea Monsters

Each Season Brings Its Own Story Of Some Fearsome Sea Serpent

There must exist subterranean monsters of which we have no knowledge, for periodically reports from outlandish places reach us of fearsome creatures. The latest is a description from Papua of a sea-serpent with long, curled tusks like those of a boar. If the natives can capture one, the New South Wales zoo will give the public the greatest sensation of the year. Some men were sent to lasso a specimen which sported near the shore, but it escaped. It was about 15 feet long, curled in coiled, with a snake-like head, huge mouth, and pale stripes under the jaw. The same creature rose out of the water and poised itself to attack two fishermen, who frightened it away with shots, but not before they had noticed its vast round eyes and head.

Mineral And Vitamins

Doctor Lists Things Every Child Should Eat Daily

What every child should eat daily to preserve the body's supply of minerals and vitamins was listed by Dr. F. F. Tisdall, of Toronto, at the Canadian Medical Association convention held in Victoria. Dr. Tisdall specified from 25 to 30 ounces of milk, including milk used in cooking, which should be about one third of the total; eggs and meat in reasonable quantities; at least two vegetables besides potatoes, and some fruit or raw vegetable.

If the human body was getting enough mineral and vitamins, more would do no good.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Cure of a Beggar's Lameness, Acts 3:1-10.

Peter Ascribes the Cure to Christ, Acts 3:11-16. An amazed crowd quickly gathered in Solomon's Porch, and Peter hastened to tell them that it was not by his own power that he had wrought this marvel, but through faith in the Prince of life the man had been made strong. This first act of healing of the apostolic age reveals us of the fact that the triumphs of modern surgery and medicine being wrought to-day by medical missionaries in the hospitals of eastern lands seem to be as miraculous as the picture of this restored cripple, leaping about to try the new strength in his limbs.

Peter and John Arrested, Acts 3:17 to 4:4. Peter's preaching at this time gained so many believers for Christ that the number increased to five thousand in all. The priests, the captain of the temple, and the Sadducees came and arrested Peter and John because they proclaimed in Jesus the resurrection from the dead. It being evening and too late for a trial, they put the apostles in prison for the night.

Peter's Boldness Before the Sanhedrin, Acts 4:5-12. The next day the Sanhedrin sat in session, that great Jewish tribunal before which Peter and John were pronounced guilty. It was supreme in all matters affecting the Jewish law, the sentence of death being the only penalty which they might not inflict. Annas and Caiaphas, Alexander and other great officials were present. Through his sons and sons-in-law Annas had virtually reigned as high priest in Jerusalem for fifty years, his high priest, recognized as such by Rome. The members sat in a semicircle and before them stood the accused. It was John and the healed man also, as a kind of accessory to the deed.

By what power or in what name have ye done this? they questioned the prisoners.

Peter, now filled with the Holy Spirit, answered his enemies. The rulers of the people (the chief priests) and elders (representatives of the Sanhedrin) if we this day are examined (put on defense) concerning a good deed done to an impotent man (a cripple), by what means this man sits up whole (if we are forced like criminals to defend ourselves for doing good) he it known that we say all this in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even in him doth this man stand before you whole. This boldly Peter accused them of having crucified Christ. "He is the stone which was set at naught by you the builders, which was made the head of the corner," that is, the stone at the angle of two walls which supports and unites them. See Ps. 118:22 and Matthew 22:42-44.

"In none other is there salvation: for neither is there any other name under heaven, that is given among men, wherein we must be saved"; with these words Peter ended his witnessing for his Lord.

Thousands Watch Air Display

Britain's New Fighting Planes Go Through Intricate Manoeuvres

One hundred and fifty thousand persons, including representatives of 47 foreign powers, attended the annual display of the British Royal Air Force at Hendon aerodrome.

The new fighters were watched Britain's new fighting planes roaring over the field at a speed of 300 miles an hour and participating in intricate flight manoeuvres.

One of the features of the display was a training demonstration during which two flyers took to the air and all instructions from the "fletcher" to his "pupils" were relayed to the crowd by radio and loud speakers stationed on the ground.

Hospital At Aklavik

New 24-Bed All Saints' Hospital To Be Opened This Autumn

When the new 24-bed All Saints' hospital is opened at Aklavik, diocese of the Arctic, this autumn, Miss Margaret Field, Chilliwack, B.C., will be added to the staff, it was announced in Toronto. The building will replace that destroyed by fire April 6.

Miss Field will accompany Margaret A. Solomon, nurse-in-charge at the hospital, and Marion Harvey, house matron, when they journey to Aklavik by the last boat down the Mackenzie river in August.

Miss Solomon has been in New Westminster, B.C., since the fire, and Miss Harvey in Toronto.

Employment In Canada

Upward Trend Is Indicated In Index Made By Firms

Employment in Canada as indicated by bureau of statistics returns from 9,890 firms, showed a gain of 23,295 persons on June 1 as compared with May 1, the bureau reported. In comparison with June, 1935, an increase of 47,721 was shown in the number employed.

This advance, while larger than the gain recorded during the month of May last year, was smaller than the average seasonal gain in the period from 1920 to the present.

The report showed $63,513 on the payrolls of the co-operating firms. Compared with $40,218 at the beginning of May and $15,792 on June 1, 1933, the index of employment on June 1 stood at 102.0 compared with 99.5 in the preceding month and 97.6 on June 1, 1935. The index is based on the average of 100 and at 102.0 stood at the highest figure for June 1 since 1931.

Improvement was reported in manufacturing, particularly in the food and lumber divisions. In the non-manufacturing industries, there were important increases in logging, mining, communications, transportation, highway and railway construction and maintenance, services and trade. On the other hand, building construction was not so active.

The trend was favorable in four of the five economic areas. Firms in the prairie provinces employed the greatest number of extra workers.

Construction (especially railroad construction and maintenance), transportation, manufacturing and trade showed improvement in the prairie provinces.

Stand By The League

General Smuts Enunciates The Position Of South Africa

General Jan Smuts, minister of justice in the Union of South Africa, said in a recent speech that it would be "sheer lunacy" for South Africa to quarrel with Great Britain.

He said the union would stand by the League of Nations until the very end, agreeing with the views on the league expressed by Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog.

(South Africa has expressed her opposition to dropping sanctions against Italy for the Ethiopian conflict.)

"It would be sheer lunacy to quarrel with England," General Smuts, a former prime minister, told an Afrikaander day meeting. "We do not possess a single ship able to ward off anti-aircraft carriers which could land enough planes on our shores to wipe out our large cities within a few hours."

"I am not referring to an imaginary danger but to a very real one. It is said we will be simply dragged into the next war in which England is involved but let me tell you that England knows South Africa wants to keep out of war, and also knows that South Africa has the right to decide her own course of action and the union will not declare war unless the people of South Africa through their own parliament have decided on that question."

Gen. Smuts said that South Africa constituted "an attractive bait for avaricious nations." He declared there was no doubt her position was becoming most dangerous.

Indian Boys Build Boat

Work At Sardis, B.C., Was Done In Four Months

The boys at the Colquhoun Industrial School, Sardis, B.C., under the direction of Mr. R. Huddleston, have completed the building and delivery of a very fine boat. The boys, between the ages of fourteen and seventeen, have done the work in four months. Thirty-five feet long, with an eight-foot beam, it will be equipped with a hundred horse-power motor. It has nice lines and a light draft. The planking is British Columbia red cedar, the keel is of fir, ribs of oak, while half a ton of Australian gum wood has been used. As these boys come from families engaged in boat-building and fishing, the training they get at the school is of practical importance. A rowboat is now under construction, and part of the instruction deals with gas-engine construction and repairs. While the Indian boys are thus employed, the girls are not idle, as the products of the arts and crafts department demonstrate.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —

His bullet ripped the weapon from the other's hand. With a hoarse cry Roper tried frantically to regain it. His fellow was that of a maddened animal as nerves sprang pained over his arm and shoulder. Suddenly he abandoned the gun, stooped, snatched a fresh Colt from the holster. He had not touched, and, gripping it, ran closer.

Link waited. A bullet had torn a hole in his trouser leg and perhaps had struck him, but he was conscious of nothing but pain from his side and shoulder. As the rancher fired again, Link fired. His accuracy repeated; once more Roper Kilo was downed.

The crowd uttered a long-drawn gasp, for still the man came on with his lightning fury. The thirty feet that had separated Mel and Fleming now was entirely gone; Kilo's thick frame hurtled through the air and his claw-like stubby hands shot for Link's wrist and throat.

They crashed, a swirling mass of writhing humanity. A cloud of dust rose so that spectators could not distinguish one from the other. Link's forty-five exploded. A well-placed blunt fist made it slither away in the dust. His antagonist whipped up a knee that grazed his groin. At the same time Roper abandoned his wrist hold and looked terrifically vile; like fingers on Link's throat.

His eyes started from their sockets. His head went foggy and the world reeled, then seemed to blot out. A ringing set up in his ears and every muscle went watery weak. Heavily before his vision came again the bulldog jaw of Roper Kilo. And with a supreme mobilization of strength in what he knew was his final blow, Fleming whipped his right arm back, crooking the elbow, then shot forth a terrific slam to the chin.

The force, bestial countenance before his sagged away. Dully Fleming heard knuckles meeting jawbone, felt that awful grip on his windpipe relax, felt black-rimmed fingernails scratching over his flesh. He crumpled to the ground as he slid into the yawning gap of unconsciousness.

When again he opened his eyes they were stinging and heavy. The first face he made out was that of Helen Hamilton, and he knew she leaned over him, held his head out of the dust with a slender arm above his neck. Gratefully he gulped from a flat bottle she held to his lips, then snatched a sighing.

There was a movement in the circle of bystanders and Sheriff Ames Stephens' grim face appeared. The lawman knelt. "Yuh gonna be all right?" Say, Link, I got news for yuh! Goodness, can yuh stand a terrible shock?"

Raw whiskey was bringing his senses again under control and he stirred as if to rise. "The money!" he croaked. "Pay—Kilgo! Pieper—" "Yes! It's been done, Link! Otto brought the cash. Far better than any other! Oh, my dear!" Helen whispered, searching his wan countenance. "You—your'll be all right?"

He managed to nod. "Buzz?" he asked weakly. "The agreement?" "It's all arranged, Link. Buzz—" She halted, and the long slender lashes fluttered and blinked. "You're all right, you're all right," she said, her hazel hair that slid slowly down toward over the girl's shoulder. "Buzz—got hurt. Roper tried to kill you, and—"

"Buzz interfered," came the vibrant voice of Vaco Byrne. "He's in a bad way, Link." "What?" she asked, the girl, who had drawn back and was staring dazedly at the ground. "In fact, Buzz got it. He's dead. But the kid did one heroic thing in his life anyway. God rest his soul!" Byrne whispered fervently. "He saved yore life, Link."

There was a taut silence. As if remembering the news he brought, Sheriff Stephen bent again over Link. "Listen!" he commanded excitedly. "The dam! Fleming's Folly! She goin'!"

Link sat up with such suddenness that his forehead brushed the lawman's shoulder. "What?"

In a flash he was on his feet. His shoulder, he noticed, was tightly bandaged. "What'd you say?" he cried in a voice that cracked to weird falsetto notes. "What'd you say about the dam?"

"Hey!" bawled the sheriff. "Bring a horse. Come on, Helen; we got to ride like hell. It's workin'! It's workin'! I tell yuh! That damned dam's a-flooded an' workin', Link!"

Half an hour later, in the van of two score wildly shouting riders, Helen Hamilton, with her hair flying in the breeze, with her small booted feet firmly braced against the dashboard, urged speeding blacks to a wider, faster pace. The Triple H spring buggy rattled and careened on two wheels. Thrumming hoofs were like the staccato trilling of a small boy's stick on the pickets of a fence. On all sides of them booted and excited citizens of Rawhide, ranchers and ranch hands of western Boone County. A wide-eyed, breathless procession, every man with astonishment on his face, every quirt lurching the steed under him.

Fleming had one good hand with which to cling to the iron brack as he sped his way. With glowing eyes he stared admiration for the girl beside him, driving like some recklessly expert charioteer of Roman days—if there were women charioteers! Now and again his look turned from her, his eyes glanced hard and hopeful at the whitened Roper Creek Dam as it flashed rapidly closer.

On a hill eminence he ventured to touch her smooth bronzed forehead. Helen glanced over, braced her feet harder, and slowly, deftly, drew the panting blacks to a halt. The horseback man split about them as steel spurs rang in post and over the dam, and headed for the up-trail to McLeod's headquarters shack. But this, for the man and girl, was sufficient view of what they wanted to see.

A long moment they sat drinking in the scene. Their eyes bright in the smooth, vast hollow shaped like a gleamed in irrigation ditches that sprayed fan-like over twenty-six hundred acres. Rapidly, eagerly, glinting triumph in the sun, the precious moisture of Silver Creek rippled and eddied in pools, currents through the veins of that fan, filling ditches, moistening for the first time the wasteland that no one would own. No one save Link Fleming and Helen Hamilton.

They did not speak for a full three minutes. Their eyes bright in the smooth, vast hollow shaped like a gleamed in irrigation ditches that sprayed fan-like over twenty-six hundred acres. Rapidly, eagerly, glinting triumph in the sun, the precious moisture of Silver Creek rippled and eddied in pools, currents through the veins of that fan, filling ditches, moistening for the first time the wasteland that no one would own. No one save Link Fleming and Helen Hamilton.

"Fleming's Folly!" she whispered huskily. "Fleming's Folly!" He swallowed hard. There was an obdurate lump in his throat. Then Link reached out and wound her reins about the whip in its socket. He took her small shapely hands in his larger browned ones. But there came interruption. A wild-eyed wiry little man with Stetson gone and thin hair toasting atop his shiny head, reared up on a diminutive mustang. He leaped over the reins and all but hurtled from his perch as the animal skidded on lowering haunches. He cupped his hands to them.

"Link! By Gawd, it works! Say, I'll give you a hundred an acre, spot cash! One hundred bucks, you say?" Helen. Eh? We'll sign up right here!"

Fleming looked at her. They smiled. "Reckon not, Otto," he called back to the banker who was tacking his head from them to the faltering of the valley, and back again. "But we'll keep our promise about the fifty acres for you."

"Hundred and twenty-five dollars. Teller? Hundred an thirty-five?" Link? Eh? No? Look here, Otto! I backed you, didn't I? Be lieved in this thing, didn't I? Give a hundred an fifty an acre for any amount!" the Rawhide banker cried in desperation.

"Otto, I'll give you a tannin if you don't turn that moth-eaten plug and money out of sight—pro! Can't you see," Link complained, he maneuvered to circle Helen Hamilton's shoulders with his good right arm, "Can't you see I'm busy making love?"

"What? You—?" Slowly he thrust away the check-book he had produced. A disgusted expression crossed his face. Otto Pieper took up his reins, clucked to his mount, and started reluctantly away.

Fifty yards distant he succumbed to a violent urge to glance around. But the banker jerked quickly from him, his lips screwed in the oval of one kissing. A soft, reflective gleam entered his shrewd grey eyes. Pieper grinned and shrugged his shoulders.

"Fleming's Folly. Huh?"

The End.

State Pension Plan

"Big Family" Law Has Been Introduced In Soviet Russia

All families in the Soviet union with more than six children, the youngest of which under five, begin immediately to receive state pensions. A "big family" law to this effect was promulgated recently.

Divorced persons will have to pay up to 50 per cent of their income for the support of their children, and divorcees will be made more difficult by heavy taxation.

Many fathers, it was announced, who for years have refused to support their children, began making payments, fearing the punishment of two years imprisonment provided for doggers of this obligation.

The government will pay 2,000 rubles a year for five years after the birth of the seventh child, and give similar aid at the birth of each succeeding child, including the 10th. After the 10th, 5,000 rubles will be paid for each new baby. An example of the severity with which offenders against the welfare of children are punished was seen in a sentence passed at Kiev. Three former officials of the Ukrainian Council of Labor unions were sentenced to death for embezzling funds assigned for rest homes and the care of tubercular children.

Just In Day's Work

Firemen at Windsor have responded to some strange calls but none stranger than one received by telephone from Detroit. A Windsor woman had gone to the Michigan city for the day and left the hot water heater turned on in her Windsor home. She asked the firemen to please go and turn it off or there might be a fire. They went.

You will feel as if you are not getting any sleep, and you will not be able to work. You will feel as if you are not getting any sleep, and you will not be able to work. You will feel as if you are not getting any sleep, and you will not be able to work.

Mysteries Easily Explained

Eastern Island Is No Riddle To French Ethnologist

The three great "mysteries" of Eastern Island are no riddle to Dr. Alfred Métraux, French ethnologist, who has joined the staff of the Bishop museum in Honolulu.

Although Métraux first went to Eastern Island as a representative of the Paris Museum of Ethnology, he transferred his services to the Honolulu museum because of his conviction that only long residence in the Pacific would make it possible to solve all of the problems of the island.

As regards the colonial status on the seashore at Eastern Island, Dr. Métraux declares there should be no mystery whatsoever. The status, he points out, weigh only five or six tons.

He insists they could have been carved in the inland quarries from which the stone originated and dragged to their present position by natives. Four hundred men could drag them with ropes of native weaving, he says.

The second "mystery" which he has deflated is that the inhabitants of Eastern Island are the remnants of the population of a lost continent. He identifies them as being merely related to the Maori of New Zealand and calculates they came to the island in the 12th century.

Finally, the third "mystery" of script on wooden tablets found on the island is explained by Dr. Métraux, who insists that it is not a true written language but rather a device to aid the memory of the natives in reciting sacred legends.

No Longer A Theory

Existence Of Spin Of Light Has Been Proved

The "spin" of light, that is, the twisting force of which its rays consist on anything solid, a scientist felt never before, is announced by Dr. Richard A. Beth of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Massachusetts. The spin of light, or its angular momentum, means that each particle, or photon, of light is capable of spinning like a speeding rifle bullet. This spin had been only theory until Dr. Beth found a method of proving its existence and measuring it by training a beam of light on a circular quartz plate one inch in diameter and about three thousandths of an inch thick.

Showed Poor Judgment

A squirrel that attempted to steal eggs from a robin's nest in St. George's Park, Robin, Ont., showed extremely poor judgment. Three robins chased him down the tree, up and through the branches of a second one and to the ground again, then up a telephone pole and out along a cable. The birds abandoned the attack.

Anxious To Secure Organ

Brantford Historical Society Wants Instrument Now In Montreal

An antique barrel organ, more than 150 years old, sought by the Brantford Historical Society, has been discovered in the Indian room of the Chateau de Ramezay in Montreal.

Brantford historians are anxious to secure the organ for their museum because it was presented by King George III. to Chief Tayenda-ding, of the Six Nations, who became known as Joseph Brant, after whom the city of Brantford has been named. So anxious are they to gain possession of the music box that they have offered to even purchase it outright.

This is hardly possible, because the Chateau de Ramezay is not an antique shop where objects can be loaned or purchased, instead it is a haven for historical objects.

The Brantford parties will have to address their pleas to the Antiquarian and Numismatic Society of Montreal, and according to past records they are not considered generous in the habit of letting a valuable museum piece slip out of their hands.

The organ stands about two feet high and resembles more a modern humidifier or an electric iron than a musical instrument. It is well preserved in spite of its age and while it has not rendered melodious tunes for more than a century, by pumping the bellows by hand, instead of using the handcrank, it is still possible to hear tunes, but these sound harsh and are reminiscent of locomotive whistles. The name of the maker is completely erased, and on the cover-board are the titles of 32 tunes and hymns, the name of which have not been heard since the 17th century.

Museum records show that the organ was presented to Chief Tayenda-ding or Joseph Brant by King George III., during his reign of 1760-1820. The reason for the presentation is unknown, but it is a known fact that the celebrated chief of the Six Mohawk Nations was highly educated and visited England several times. He died in 1807 at the age of 65. There is a statue of him at Brantford.

The World's Progress

Has The Same Rate Of Advance Been Made In Every Field Of Endeavour

Whether the same rate of growth has been registered by the English-speaking peoples in every field of human endeavor between the Britannia and the Queen Mary is a question that needs further study. For example, a few months before the Britannia sailed from England there was published in that country a book called "Nicholas Nickleby." The year after the Britannia arrived here a first volume of essays was published by a man named Emerson. Obviously we must have better statistics than are now available before we can affirm that the two English-speaking nations today can easily turn out a couple of books from five to three hundred times as good—New York Times.

Likes His Adopted Country

Native Of Holy Land Prefers Canada To Palestine

Louis Kasasid prefers northern Victoria county even with its bleak, cold winters to his sunny native land of Palestine, he told newspapermen at North Sydney, New South Wales, when he returned from a visit to the Holy Land, his first in 40 years.

During his trip he visited many of the Biblical cities, saw relatives he had not seen since childhood and witnessed the first of the Arab-Jewish clashes. Back in Canada, he expressed his joy at returning to his adopted country.

Little Helps For This Week

Behold I have chosen thee, but not with silver, I have rephened thee in the furnace of affliction. Isaiah 48: 10.

Be patient suffering soul; I hear thee. The trial days may grow, but I am nigh.

I see the silver and I will rejoice. Until my image shall upon it shine.

Fear not for I am near, thy help is near. Greater than all thy pain, My love for thee.

God takes a thousand times more pains with us than an artist with his picture, by many touches of sorrow, and by many colors of circumstance, to bring man into the form which is the highest and noblest in His sight, if only we receive His gifts and myrrh in the right spirit. But when this cup is put away, and these feelings are stifled or unheeded, a greater injury is done to the soul than can ever be amended. What we should receive for our soul's good we may suffer to pass by us, and nothing comes of it. Then we come to the Lord and complain, and He tells us to open our heart to the pain which will do us more good than if we were always in the spirit of praise.

A Distinguished Veteran

Sir Percival Marling's Worst Moment Was Not On Battlefield

The late Sir Percival Marling, V.C., was one of three survivors who won that decoration in the first Sudan campaign. He also took part in the first Boer War, and only three years before his death, revisited the scenes of his youthful battles in the Sudan as a young lieutenant. Amongst the famous warriors he encountered was Osman Digna, who was reputed a genuine centurion when he died ten years ago after many false alarms. Five years ago Sir Percival published a most interesting book of recollections. From this it may be gathered that his worst moment was not on any storied battlefield, but on a ceremonial occasion in the heart of London. It was the officer in charge of a mounted escort for Queen, Victoria, and foam from his charger's mouth fell on the Queen's veil, necessitating mopping with energetic handkerchiefs by the Princess of Wales, after the Queen Alexandra, and the ladies-in-Waiting. That contretemps brought a shattering laugh from the Queen and a peremptory order from the Horse Guards against officers' horses foaming at the mouth.

Serious Surgical Ailment

Winnipeg Doctor Urges An Early Diagnosis Of Appendicitis

The need for early diagnosis of acute appendicitis was stressed by Dr. Gordon Fahrl, Winnipeg, speaking before the Canadian Medical Association. It was in the early stages that operation offered the lowest mortality rate.

In the United States and Canada 25,000 deaths were reported annually from acute appendicitis, equivalent to 20 per 100,000 of population. Appendicitis now ranked only second to cancer as a killing surgical ailment, he said.

Exclusive of the cost of the silver itself, it costs Uncle Sam only $450 to turn out 1,000 dimes, $7 for 1,000 half dollars and $10.50 for 1,000 silver dollars.
